SANTA ANNA .- The unsettled state of the Spanish-Mexican question gives particular significance to the movements of this futile yet dauntless intriguer. It is evident that Santa Anna is ready and anxious to attempt the overthrow of Comonfort's government, for he says so very plainly in the manifesto which he lately issued from Carthagena; and it is not less evident that the Mexican Opposition, is rependently of all exterior aid and comfort, are thoroughly ripe for the attempt. With the State sapped and mined by sedition, and in free communication with a banished leader eager to return and apply the torch of revolution, little, if anything, is wanting to insure a speedy explosion; and that little appears to be supplied by the irrational attitude of Spain. The course of the Spanish government on the Mexican question is certainly most absurd, and, if not intended to second the immediate purpose of Santa Anna, is quite inexplicable. Whatever may be its intention, this undoubtedly is its effect, and, thus strengthened, Santa Anna will be likely to enter on the accomplishment of his purpose at an early day.

If, therefore, the native importance of the ex-Dictator is not much, his factitious importance just at present is considerable. Circumstances having conspired in this manner to lift his movement out of the category of simple gasconade, it may be worth while to notice his own annunciation of its object The manifesto fulminated from Carthagena is in many respects a remarkable document. It is drawn up with uncommon skill, and evinces a very profound and intimate appreciation not only of the Mexican character but of the philosophy of government. Its political observations are in the main striking and admirable. Whatever may be thought of Santa Anna's efficiency or inefficiency as a practical statesman, it must be acknowledged that intellectually he rank mong the foremost men of the time. In point of sagacity and force of language, we think the present manifesto is not surpassed, if equaled, by anything that has emanated from his hand. It opens with an artful apology for his renunciation of power a few years ago, which, with the adroitness and something of the impudence of an advocate, he assumes to have been voluntary, and then proceeds to examine the course of events in his absence, and to show up with masterly vigor the acts and omissions of his adversaries, in contrast with his own superior administration of affairs. He next speculates with great discernment, though not perhaps with equal pertinency, on the causes of the alleged failure of the revolution of Ayutla, and the deplorable issue to which, as he asserts. Comonfort has at length brought the affairs of the nation; declares that the only way out of the present exigency is through 'a new and more horrible revolution which will be fomented by all classes and accepted by all men. and which he says "it would be in vain to attempt to restrain, even although the half of the republic should have to be sold to supply resources;" avows his conviction that "Democratic institutions, strictly such, are not possible in Mexico;" commends instead of the constitution framed by the late Constitutional Congress one of monarchical form, "already drawn up by some of the thinking men of the repub lic," and known under the name of "Organic Bases;" dwells at length and warmly on the necessity of recon structing the social edifice on those "bases;" sketches in heroic colors "the man whom Providence may have designed to be the chief of this great movement," affirming especially that he "should be ready and resolved to die, if it should be required;' and, while modestly disowning all claims to such chieftainship himself, announces nevertheless his perfect willingness that his life, if necessary, d be offered up in sacrifice, as a holocaust and great burnt offering." In a word, the bungling lib eralists having again plunged Mexico into the depths of anarchy and wretchedness, Santa Anna. in the interest of order, appears once more as the savior of his country! Such is the purport of this ingenious and powerful paper. There of course can be no question after this that Santa Anna's aim and policy are in complete accord with those of the Spanish Court, or that in prosecuting both he will receive from thence all the aid which may be thought consistent with the integrity of the Spanish crown. How much this may be it is difficult to say, though there is too much reason to apprehend that the manifest but no doubt groundless reliance of Spain upon the protection of England and France, if the worst should happen, may render it somewhat "material." It is said that the measure of aid designated by Santa Anna himself is three vessels of war and fifteen hundred men, for which, if furnished, he engages ln return to make a treaty with Spain as soon as his Government is established, granting the entire Spanish claim against his country, and to enter into an offensive and defensive alliance against the United States beside. This proposition is understood to have received the sanction of Spaniards of high position in Cuba, and to have been strongly ended by them to the Government at Madrid. If Spain shall accept it we may look out for lively times in the region of the Gulf. And, goaded by her wealthy and unscrupulous subjects, the fraudulent creditors of Mexico, as well as deluded by her trust in England and France, she may be tempted to accept it. The step, though unquestion ably a perilous one, is not at all improbable.

If it is taken, the restless exile of Carthagens nay possibly again find himself at the head of the Mexican Government and people for a brief period, though to no other purpose, we are persuaded, than to oppress and degrade the one and dishonor the other new. This, indeed, is palpable, from his own declarations. We most sincerely hope that he may not win the opportunity of achieving so much fresh evil. The Mexican people have now a fair chance of vindicating their claim to political freedom. We shall see if they do it. Santa Anna has proclaimed to the world that they are incapable of self government. The world is curious to know if they will justify the libel by laying their necks beneath his heel,

TO CLARENCE.

WITH A ROSE-BUD. When the poet's inspiration, Like an Angel bright and strong, Lifts me to the starry ranges Of the upper spheres of song, I have dreams of thee, oh Clarence. Ot thy genlus-lighted eyes-Of the dark and hannting splendor

'Neath thy paie iids' full and rise? With the solemn stars I meet thee In the wizzard world of thought, And the night o'erflows with beauty By thy glorious presence wrought; Though thy locks of midnight shadow The pair forehead of a boy, I have bowed before thy spirit With a passion and a joy!

The adoring world may crown thee Where the palace spiendors shine; And thy life may roll before thee. With a beauty half divine; Yet, oh Clarence! as the poet Loves some giorlous distant star. With my ionely dreams about me I will worship thee afar?

EMMA ALICE BROWNE

And we will say of these stanzas too that they approach the very perfection of beauty:

[For the Louisville Bulletin.] STANZAS

BY BALLIE M. BRYAN How the scornful stars look on me Save me from their searching raye! There's a something almost maddening In their coldly-smlling gaze.

Statue things of glorious beauty! Though their hearts should seem of fire They're but .lght of awful caimness Knowing ueither love nor ire,

I am strangely, sadly weary-Weary even of ail I've known And my heart weighs in my hosom Like a broken, icy stone Wherefore said the world I loved him-

And could love no other one! Wherefore heard I this believing? Ah, my former faith's undone. Love but one? The world is crowded-

Many glorious rivals breathe-Love but one? Ah, love will wear out Striving round one form to wreathe.

Will I wed thee? Yes-I'm weary Of the wiid wood's violet bloom Breathing in thy brilliant rooms!

And a picture world is glowing Ever on thy radiant walls; And, from flowery groves, sweet music Murmurs through thy princely hair.

Oh, ln graceful, mist-like costume With pure pearls o'er brow and hair, In thy haiis I'll seem enchanting By the shaded iamp-light there

Yes, I'll wed thee! Thon art pleasing-Ay, thine eyes are deeply hine-And I'ii iove thee very fondiy-

Allan's fair and slight and boyish... How can he hut charm my view? Herman's dark and proud and maniy-

Blame me not_it is my nature Thus to change and change and change: Silght things win mc, things still slighter Serve my spirit to estrange.

Yes, I'il wed thee-but I tell thee, Fiery man! oh frown not thon If I gaze on princely strangers Murmuring: What a lip and brow!

LYNCHING IN MEMPHIS. - We have the Memphis papers of Saturday. They contain the proceedings of the public meeting held on the preceeding evening, to take more active measures to secure the peace of the city. While the Chairman, Col. J. L. Saffarrans, was selecting a committee, some person made a proposition that if one hundred men would follow him, he would lead in taking John Able out of the jail and hang him. This proposition was received with shonts, and some three hundred followed him. The Appeal tells the rest:

dressed the audience. He appealed to them to support the laws, and not let strangers interfere in the affairs of Memphis. Col. Saffarrans followed in the same vein. The remarks of these seminals had same vein. The remarks of these gentlemen, seemingly, had but little effect, and soon the hall was deserted.

The crowd went to the jail, forced open the doors, and took out John Able, the inurderer of John Everson. With chains upon his person, he was hurried some two squares, to the end of the rope-walk, where it was proposed to hang him. Arrived there, the crowd having him in charge found his wife, mother, and sister, who made such pathetic appeals that by a nearly unanimous vote it was resolved to take him back to jail and let the law have its course. Able was taken back and lodged in a cell, and for a few minutes all seemed satisfied.

A cry arcse, "hang him," and soon a crowbar was brought into requisition and the outside door of the brought into requisition and the outside door of the jail forced. Several speeches were made, and finally the crowd dispersed, with the understanding that the law would be permitted to have its course.

The rope was placed around Able's neck three times, but he displayed no signs of fear. He addressed the crowd, as did his mother. Able soid he desired to settle up his accounts, and in a cool manner stated he had very nearly got through with his arrangements, so far as his property was concerned. The matter is now left with the Grand Jury and the Criminal Court

[From the Davenport Gazette, Monday, June 27.] Mone Lynching in Iowa.— A Gang of Horse-thieves Broken Up—Hunging the Rangheder.—For some years past the farmers of Cliuton, Cedar, and part of Scott counties have been greatly troubled by horse-thieves. Some farmers have lost as many as six and eight horses, and others three and four, and so on. Several recent thefts, and a knowledge that a regular organized band of horse-thieves existed in said region, who seemed to deer all law and that a regular organized band of horse-thieves existed in said region, who seemed to defy all law and all efforts to punish them, induced the farmers of these counties to organize a committee or society to break up this band. Such a committee was formed a short time since, and in it are some of the most substantial farmers in Clinton, Cedar, and Linn counties. The following facts have been given us by a reliable informant, who is acquainted with the names of a good many of the committee, and of certain persons whom the committee are in search of. The facts we give are direct from a member of the The facts we give are direct from a member of the committee to our informant.

Some days ago the committee arrested two men,

Some days ago the committee arrested two men, and, placing a rope in the wagon, started for the timber. This so frightened the prisoners that they made a full confession to save their own lives. They told all about the organization and who were engaged in it, giving names, &c., in detail. With this information, the committee proceeded to the house of a man named Page, living in the back part of Clinton county, to arrest a horse thief who was supposed to be concealed there. When approaching the house, they were fired upon. They returned the fire and shot Page in the bowels, who has received a fatal wound. Ile is probably dead by this time. We presume the thief was not arrested, as we did not hear the fact mentioned. This happened about last Tnesday.

not hear the fact mentioned. This happened about last Tnesday.

Day before yesterday (Thursday), at half-past 1 o'clock, the committee proceeded to arrest an old man named Benjamin Warren, who lives in the "Warren settlement" of Cedar county. He had long been suspected of horse thieving, but he had been sharp enough to cover up his thefts as they were committed, so that he had escaped justice. The committee now, however, had the direct evidence.

The committee now, however, had the direct evidence.

When some distance from his house about forty horsemen of the main gang left their companions and galloped up to the house, to take him by surprise and prevent his escape. He was secured and taken into the woods, where the crowd was gathered. Here a regular jury was enpunneled, and a committee took charge of the investigation. He passed through a formal trial, in which a miniber of witnesses were examined. He was asked if he had any witnesses to examine or defense to make. He said he had not. The question then arose whether to lynch him or hang him, and was put to vote. About thirty were for lynching, and the balance, probably nearly three hundred, were for hanging. The decision was made known to him, and he was asked if he had any preparatiou to make. He said he only wanted time to make on his will, and he had about thirty bequests to make to as many heirs. The committee decided that this would take too much time. mittee decided that this would take too much time, more than could be afforded him, and he must die without the will being made. Not a muscle moved more than could be afforded him, and he must die without the will being made. Not a mnscle moved in the old man's face, not a nerve quivered. He only remarked that he thought it was a pretty quick way of doing things. He placed his hands behind him to be tied, rose to his feet and was ready, apparently as unmoved as though he were but a spectator. A rope was fixed across a tall limb, and fastened around his neck. The first jerk he swung six feet from the ground. He was raised ten feet higher and hung a corpse.

The committee then proceeded to his house. They met his wife and asked what should be done with his body. She said she would take care of it. She seemed almost numoved, and appeared to think justice had been rendered. She said she had often told him what would happen, and warned him to change his life. His son had done the same. The committee brought the body to the house and delivered it to his friends, who seemed to think simple justice had been done in hanging him. Warren was an old settler and in good circumstances. Last Sunday he was tracked to the woods, where he was seen to hold a secret consultation with two men, strangers in the vicinity. The committee examined his house, and found letters signed by various names, doubtless fictitious, telling him where to tind and secrete property, making appointments, &c., all important as means of discovery of other members of the band.

ing appointments, &c., all important as means of discovery of other members of the band. The committee are determined to rid the neighborhood of this gang. They have notified three persons to leave that part of the country in ninety days, among whom is a widow woman who harbored members of the band. One person passed through this city a few days ago, making his escape from the committee. The latter were only one hour leahind him when fifteen niles from this place, and would have had him but, cut ou the wrong track. would have had him but got on the wrong track. We may expect to hear of others being lynched or hung by this committee.

We have no time for comment at the late hour at we have no time for comment at the late hour at which we write. We deprecate mobs and mob violence under any and all circumstances, and make no exception in this case. But, from all we have heard of the outrages committed by the gang of horse thieves alluded to, it seems to us, if the mobs and lynching are ever excusable, there is some excuse for this severe action on the part of the farmers composing this committee. They declared it their only means of protection. Alas! that the evil should exist demanding such unlawful remedies as this.

EXTRAORDINARY BREAK AND SALE OF TOBACCO.—We learn from the inspectors at Shockoe Warehouse, that, on Tuesday last, they inspected one hundred and seventy-six hogsheads of tobacco, of which one hundred and fifty-eight were sold at auclion, at an average of $15.78 per hundred pounds. Averaging the weight of each hogshead at 1.300 pounds, the price would be $200 per hogshead, or, in the aggregate, $32,311. This is said to be the highest sale even made here. One crop of 24 hogsheads, grown by Mr. it. A. Watkins, of Halifax, was sold by the inspectors at the following prices:

Washington, June 30.

The Postmaster General, with the approbation of the President, has selected the following route for conveying the overland mail to California, viz: Beginning at St. Louis and Memphis, on the Mississippi river, thence forming a junction at Little Rock, Ark., in the direction of Preston to the Rio Grande, at the most snitable crossing of that river, near Fort Fillmore or Dunna Anna, thence along the new road now being made under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior to Fort Yunna; thence by the best passes through the best valleys for safe and expeditious staging to San Francisco.

The Post Master General, with the approbation of the President, has given the contract to John Butterfield, Wm. B. Dinsmore, Wm. G. Fargo, V. P. Gardner, Marquins Kenion, and Alex. Holland, of New York, and Hamilton Spencer, of Illinois, at the price of $595,000 for semi-weekly service; they being the lowest bidders, and agreeing to perform 400 miles more service than was proposed by other bidders.

NEW ORLEANS, June 20.

The steamer Empire City was allowed to come np from quarantine to-day. Her mails and a portion of her passengers arrived here yesterday.

NEW YORK, June 30. The report that the Astor Honse of this city had raised its rates to three dollars per day has no foun-lation in truth.

PORTLAND, Me., June 30.

The Democratic State Convention was held here to-day. It. Smith, of Warren, was unanimously nominated for Governor.

Resolutions were adopted extolling the Democratic party and sustaining its course in regard to Kansas; expressing submission to the supreme court decision; complimentary to President Buchanan, opposing the liquor law; and favoring annexation legally carried out.

Last night at midnight, a fire broke out in the foundry of J. S. Haven & Co., ou the hill head of Broadway. The foundry and nine dwellings, partly frame, were destroyed. The want of water prevented the fire department from extinguishing the fire. Loss $20,000, partly insured.

NEW MOVEMENT IN THE SUGAR TRADE. We notice a new movement in the sugar trade. The New York market having a large stock of sugars, while they are inactive and freights to Europe low, holders of bonded goods have commenced shipments to foreign ports and chiefly to London. The freight engagements of sugars last week, mostly to Great Britain, have embraced about 5,000 hhds, chiefly from first hands. The public have anticipated a reduction in the price of sugars in consequence of the reduction of the duty from 30 to 20 on the 1st proximo, but this, it is estimated, will not effect a change of more than half a cent per pound.

The movement above referred to seems to confirm the statement that the Rothschilds are largely interested in the sugar trade, having bought large quantities with a view of keeping up prices and controling the market.

FORTUNATE ESCAPE OF JUDGE TREAT .- As Judge Treat, of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Missonri, was on his way, last Friday, from St. Louis to Cincinnati, he accidentally fell from the platform of the hindmost car in the Express train, while in rapid motion. Stunned by the shock, he lay for a couple of hours insensible. and, as the time was night, he was not perceived until he recovered sufficiently to proceed to the nearest dwelling, when he took the train again for Cincinnati. Fortunately, no train passed over the road while he lav insensible upon it, and strange to say, though very much bruised, he escaped without any other lnjury.

LEXINGTON AND DANVILLE RAILROAD.—General Combs, president of this road, announces that the second division of the Kentucky Central Railroad will be opened to Nicholasville on the coming anniversary of our National Independence. Regular passenger and freight trains will soon commence operations, under the charge of the Covington company, with whom arrangements have been made for that purpose. THE NEW SPEAKER OF THE House OF COM-MONS .- The Buffalo Commercial publishes the closing part of a letter, received by Rev. Denison, of that city, from the Right Hon. J. Evelyn Denison, Speaker of the House of Connious. It is of some public interest, from the friendly sentiments it expresses towards the United States:

House of Commons, June 9, 1857.

Rev. Sur: * * * * I have always felt to have any sympathies with the luhabitants of the United States, ever since my visit to your country in my youth, now thirty-three years ago. The year I spent in the United States was one of the most agreeable and the most interesting of my life. House of Commons, no words but, those of amity and good will towards the United States may ever be uttered within its walls.

I have the honor to be, Rev. Sir,

Your faithful and obedient servant, J. EVELYN DENISON.

A London letter says:

I regret to inform you that, notwithstanding the large sums of money Mr. Douglas Jerrold has been earning for the last ten years, he has made no provision for his family. He was in the receipt of £1,000 a year from Lloyd's Weekly Newspaper, as much from Punch, to say nothing of his other literary and dramatic productions. Benefits are to be given in aid of the widow and family through the kindness of Messieurs Webster, Buckstone, Arthur J. Chappell, and others, at the Haymarket and Adelphi theatres and the Royal Surry gardens. At the former theatre that veteran legitimate and dramatic tar—for he was a mid-hipman at Trafalgar—Mr. T. P. Cooke, will play William in Mr. Jerrold's play of "Black Eyed Susan." Mr. W. H. Russell, the Times Crimean correspondent (by the permission of his impresario, Mr. Willert Beale), will give a reading, and Messrs. Charles Dickens, Thackeray, and Albert Smith promise something in the same way.

His wish will undoubtedly be complied with.

SUICIDE OR MURDER.—Robert Baker, a brother of Marshal Baker, late sheriff of Greennp county Kentucky, was found hanging on a tree near his residence, in Carter county, near the edge of Green-up and near Grayson, on last Sunday morning. The deceased was a very worthy and well known citizen of this region of country, and had been a candidate for high official stations. On Sunday morning early he started over to his son's residence to take a horse for his son to use, taking with him a line to lead it with. He left the horse at his son's, and on his return the deed was committed by himself or some one clse. He was found about ten o'clock. The one cise. He was found about the officer. The jury returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to his death by violence at the hands of some unknown persons. The deceased was a witness in two or three important land suits.

Stereoscopic Portraits. -M. Lugeal, in making the ereoscopic portrait of one of his friends, had the idea of taking the two images or proofs one after the other and making his friend look each time at a the other and making his friend look each time at a different object. Thus, during his first sitting he looked at the glass of the camera obscura, and during the second to the right at an object fixed nearly at an angle of forty-five degrees. These two images being placed in the stereoscope, let the observer stand opposite a window, and without ceasing too look at the portrait, turn himself to the right or left, he will see the eyes of the portrait follow him as though they were animated.

[From the Aita California, Juno 5.] SUMMARY OF A FORTNIGHT'S CALIFORNIA NEWS.

Since the departure of the last mail steamer later and more reliable intelligence of the fate of the Sonora expeditionists has been received. The main facts, however, of the total annihilation of the party under command of H. A. Crabb, is fully confirmed. The outrages committed by the Mexicans on other American citizens have been in certain inventor. American citizens have been, in certain instances, exaggerated but there is no doubt that many innocent persons have suffered severely. The excitecent persons have suffered severely. The excite-ment consequent on the receipt of the news of the massacre at Cavorca has spread throughout the in-terior, and in some localities efforts are being made to drive the Mexicans out of such communities. Such a proceeding, however, will scarcely be upheld by the great mass of the people of the State, and certainly should be discountenanced in its incipien-the trial at Napa City of Edward McGowan the charge of being accessory to the murder of Jas. King, of William, was brought to a termination at midnight of the 21st inst., at which hour the jury, after an absence of five minutes, brought in a ver dict of not guity. There was no proof alleged of his complicity in the murder to warrant his couvic-tion, and the verdict had been foreshadowed during every step of the trial. The accused, immediately after the court adjourned, left for Sacramento. It is scarcely probable he will make his appearance here for the present, at all events, as the popular feeling is still excited against him. Tunnelling and quartz mining have been very extunneling and quartz mining have been very extensively and profitably carried on of late. Hydraulic mining, ulso, is rapidly supplanting the sluice and rocker, and in some counties these latter implements have gone entirely into disuse.

A rumor prevails charging Col. Haraszthy, melter and refiner at the United States Branch Mint, with defalcation to a large amount, variously stated at from $100,000 to $500,000. Col. Haraszthy has from $100,000 to $500,000. Col. Haraszthy has made over all his property to be held in trust for the United States Government against any deficiency which may be chargeable to him. The wastage at the Mint is immense, owing to the badly-constructed chimneys and fines. A large amount of fine gold dust escapes and is lodged in the chimney and upon the roof of the Mint and adjoining houses. The sweepings from the roofs of Davidson's building amounted to three hundred ounces. Eleven hundred and eighty ounces were collected from the chimney after two and a half months' work.

[From the Paris Correspondence of the New York Times.] You have all read of Jules Gerard, the lion killer, and of his wonderful encounters in the jungles of Africa. When Gerard came back to Paris the last rica. When Gerard came back to Paris the last time from his favorite amusement in Africa, he suggested to Devisine, the well known guinnaker of the Boulevard des Italiens, the idea of inventing a ball that would explode when it arrived in the animal's body. M. Devisine went to work to realize this idea, the utility of which in the chase of lions, elephants, and other wild beasts is but too obvious, and it is pretended that he has perfectly succeeded. The new projectile is about the size of the Minie ball: its benetrating force is equal to the the Minie hall; its penetrating force is equal to the common ball. Arrived in the animal's body it explodes like a bomb, and, of course, causes the sudden death of the animal. If shot into the lungs of den death of the auimal. If shot into the lungs of an elephant for example, the ball in exploding, disengages carbonic acid gas, and the animal, which from its size, might otherwise survive for a short time, will suddeuly fall asphyxiated. A few days ago a party of gentlemen accompanied M. Devisme to a horse slaughter-house in the environs of the city. There the new projectile was tried on five horses who were standing tied to a fence waiting to be shot. They were each shot in the lungs, the ball exploded, and the auimal fell dead. The experiment was completely satisfactory. Since then, M. Devisme, to demonstrate the practicability of his new projectile as a substitute for the harpoon in the destructile 23 a substitute for the harpoon in the destruc-tion of whales, has gone to Havre, not with the hope that a whale would present itself to be killed, but to try the experiment on an artific a whole that would respond in its resistance to a real one. The experiment was entirely successful, and those who witnessed it assert positively that the substitute for the harpoou is found. But if this ball will penetrate the blubber of the whale to a sufficient depth, its ntility over the harpoon is so great that the me of that instrument must suddenly cease; for the harpoon is not only an uncertain but a dangerous instrument to those who use it, while the ball of M. A singular accident, more or less connected with crinoline, was observed a few days ago on the Boulevard. Two young women, elegantly dressed, with an ahundance of the expensive material, were crossing the street in the most fashionable and crowded part of the Boulevard, when one of them was suddenly seen to be in a blaze of tire. The other girl ran to her assistance, and her clothes being light, the flames were communicated to her as well. A the flames were communicated to her as well. A crowd hastily collected, and the flames were extinguished, but not till the first one had all her outside clothes and her bonnet burned off her, and her skin slightly burnt. The second one only had her dress spoiled. How could such an accident have happened? The girls had been sitting in a restaurant taking their coffee. A lighted cigar by some means found its way under the lady's dress on the floor, the halloon-like form of the skirts and the confined air served the double purpose of restraining the flames and of preventing the fire from touching her person, until the movement of walking in the street renewed the air and caused the flames to break out suddenly

Of these 113 were of the army, 13 were females, 6 civilians, and 5 children. One of the soldiers, Wm. Bagley, died just as the ship anchored, and one of the civilians, Thos. They fed, lodged, and clothed them, with no little inconvenience to themselves, and with such cordiality as to call fouth the warmest expression of gratitude. to call forth the warmest expression of gratitude. DELIVERY OF THE RESCUED WOMAN.-The young girl, Miss Gardner, who was carried away from Spirit Lake after the massacre at that place, and who, in company with three other women, has been elties of savage life, and victims to the brutal stincts of their savage persecutors, has finally been ransomed and brought to this city. Three peaceful Yankton Indians, Ma-za-cu-ta-na-ni, Un-pa-ta-to-che-ca, and Casta-ma-za, brought her down.

The Indians took the girl to the Governor vester-day morning, at whose room they convened at 10 o'clock, and formally delivered Miss Gardner into his care, he receiving her on behalf of the whites. The joyful transfer was accompanied with appropriate speeches on either side—that of the Indians being rendered into English by an interpreter. The burden of their remarks was a desire to cultivate amicable feelings with the whites, and to be permitted to remain ou their reservations, and cultivate the arts of peace and civilization.

They received the kindest and most friendly treatment from Covernor Medary, who evinced a desire

This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared on strict ly cientific principles, after the anamer of the celebrated Holland Professor, Boerhave. Because of its great success in most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was judented more especially for those of our fatheriand scattered here and there over the face of this mishty country. Meeting with great success among them. I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous may of ardent surits, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in itselfect, it finds its way directly tellines and the standard of the seast of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new health and vigor in the system./ (7/11) to the standard of the standard of the disappointed; but to the sick, weak, and low striked it will prive a grateful aromatic cordial, possessed of singular remedial properties.

CAUTION.

Theogreat popularity of this delightful Aroma has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing. By the splendid steamer James Montgomery, which reached Portland about noon, we are in possession of New Orleans papers of last Thursday evening and copies of her manifest and memorandum. Messrs. Lowry and Wilkes have our thanks. The Montgomery has thus made one of the quickest trips of the season. She returns to New Orleans tomorrow evening, and presents great inducements to travelers.

Messrs. Judge and Moore, of the fine steame Fanny Bullitt, have our thanks for favors, She will leave for New Orleans on Friday.

POLICE PROCEEDINGS .- Wednesday, July 1st .-Adolph Schuff haus was charged with stealing two shirts and other clothing from the bar-keeper at Wolfe's tavern. The accusation was not sustained by the testimony; but the fellow not having been engaged in any business for some time, he was held to bail for three months.

Frederick Hoffman became drunk and fell off his hack, not damaging him, but producing almost instant sobriety. Bail in $100 for 2 months.

Peter Connelly obtained a peace-warrant against Pat. Murphy. Both of these are passionate men and the court thought it best to hold both to bail.

CUTTING AFFAIR. Quite an excitement was produced in town, night before last, in consequence of the stabbing of Mr. Peter Grant, of this city, by Mrs. Hamilton, the widow of Hercules II. Hamil-Mrs. Hamilton, the widow of Hercules II. Hamilton. The circumstances, as generally reported, are about these. The probate court of our county, had upon the application of a Mrs. Moore, a sister of Mrs. Hamilton, given to the former, the guardianship of the children of the latter—two girls, who have a small, though a very comfortable, estate. Mrs. Moore had determined to send these girls up to St. Lonis, to a Roman Catholic school, and they were to have gone by the steamer Baltie night before last. The mother was anwilling to be separa-fore last. The mother was unwilling to be separaed so far from her children, and went under the hill to the steamboat, to see them, and very probably to get them, if possible, back. It seems, however (at least so she alleges), that she was prevented from reaching her children by two by-standers who held her, one of whom was the gentleman wounded. She told them to unloose her, threatening that she would injure them if they did not let her go.

The result was, she drew a knife and inflicted a severe wound in the right side of Mr. Grant. In the excitement produced, the children, who were very unvilling to leave the city and wished to stay. very unwilling to leave the city and wished to stay near their mother, got away from those in charge of them, ran up town, and took refuge in a friend's

Mrs. Hamilton was arrested but discharged yes terday morning, no complaint being preferred against her. The matter, we presume, will not be judicially investigated.—Natchez Courier, June 20.

HOLLAND AND JAPAN.—The official journal of the Hagne of the 5th contains a long report to the king from M. Meyer, Minister of Colonies, and M. Gevers, Minister of Foreign Affairs, relative to Japanese affairs, and his majesty has approved it. Annexed to the report are the fifteen articles agreed to between the Dutch and Japanese agents, which articles are to form a part of the treaty between Japan and Holland, concluded on the 30th of Jannary, 1856. These articles amongst other things stipulate that the Dutch shall be allowed to exercise their worship freely and that they shall he no longer subjected to the impions custom of trampling under foot the image of our Saviour on the Cross. They also enact that the Dutch shall be permitted to trade in the open ports, and to sell to and purchase from also enact that the Dutch shall be permitted to trade in the open ports, and to sell to and purchase from Japanese traders. Also to take their wives and children to the said ports. The articles further declare that the importation of foreign and the exportation of Japanese money shall be allowed; that the Japanese government may levy moderate import, transit, and export duties; and, lastly, that the Dutch at Nangasaki may maintain free relations with foreigners, both on board vessels and at Decima. The report adds that the Japanese government has deelared itself ready to couclude treaties with fall the foreign governments that may wish for them.

The Dutch Minister of finance has decided that daguerrectypists and photographists are not to be considered artistis, and that consequently they are to pay the tax for putentees or liceuse to trade.

BUTTER MAKING IN NEW YORK .- The following report of the committee of judges on butter will be interesting to many of our readers, and they may get some items from it which may be profitable. On the whole there is not much variation from the practice in common use. The practice of washing the butter seems to be very general.

The idea of "solar evaporation" is novel, but we don't its utility or practicability without inconvenience by many. We see that Mr. Carpenter churns a' a temperature of 68 deg., which is higher than we h ve ever known good butter made at by about 8 dag.; 58 deg. to 60 deg. is found by careful experiment to be the best temperature for churning:

The committee would respectfully report that the and that they have carefully examined all the butter offered, which was some seventy packages, being many more than has been presented for many years, and perhaps the most ever presented at any fair since the formation of the society. The committee found great difficulty in deciding on the merits of the different packages, but have done so according to the best of their judgment. They regret that they were limited to so few premiums, as many of the samples were first rate; and only by a very close examination after hydrogically the packages to a examination, after bringing all the packages to a certain standard, and reducing the number to twelve or fifteen as extra No. 1, and then re-examining, and finally awarding the premiums.

B. S. CARPENTER, ELMIRA. Manner of Making Butter; yield of fice Cows in thir ty consecutive days (1st Premium).

In compliance with the rules of our Society, I submit the following method of our butter ma-cing. The milk when drawn is strained into tin king. The milk when drawn is strained into tin pails, holding twelve quarts each, and set on the bottom of our cellar, which is a water line cement, where it remains until it becomes loppered. It is then, both milk and cream, poured into churns, which hold a barrel cach. A pailful of water to six of milk added, and the whole brought to a temperature of 68 degrees. The churning is done by horse power, and requires about two hours. Just before the butter has fully come, another pailful or two of water to six of milk is put into each churn. two of water to six of milk is put into each churn to thin the buttermilk, so that the butter may rise freely. The butter is taken from the churn into large wooden bowls, thoroughly washed with cold water, and salted with about one-onnee of Ashton salt to a pound of butter, and lightly worked through with a common ladle. It is afterwards worked to interval of along the bows for four or worked at intervals of about three hours, for four or five times, with a common ladle, and packed into firkins, the next morning.

The firkins are filled within an inch or so of the top, a thin cloth spread over the butter, and that covered with salt and brine through the whole sea-When the weather becomes cool, to havten the son. When the weather becomes cool, to havten the thickening of the milk, we leave a quart or two of buttermilk in each pail when the milk is strained.

The butter from five cows, of which I offer a sample of twenty-seven pounds, was made in strict conformity to the foregoing statement, during the month of June—the sample was made during the last week of June. The cows were fed on pasture alone—no roots, grain, or slops of any description used.

The cows were all owned by mc previous to the first of February, 1856. The milk from them on the 2d of June weighed two hundred and thirty-one pounds—measured one hundred and eighteen and a

secutive days was two hundred and fifty-two pounds

2d. Milk is placed in a well ventilated room, with as much surface exposed to the north as possible, the rest shaded so as to keep cool; is warmed in fall and winter by means of a stove. The cream is taken off as soon as the milk becomes thick, and sometimes before; it should be taken off before any sometimes before; it should be taken off before any specks show themselves on the cream. The cream is kept at about 56 or 58 degs., by means of coolers suspended in the well. Milk should be closely watched and not let the cream stand too long, as it injures the quality of the butter.

3d. The butter is rinsed with cold water.

4th. Water is used as being the best and most ex-editious way of freeing it of milk; and good but-er, I think, cannot surely be produced, in hot peditious way weather, without the use of water.

5th. We use the Ashton salt, three-fourths of an ounce to the pound, or rock salt.

6th. Use no saltpetre, as I think it does no good.
7th. I think the Syracuse salt injurious, as there seems to be an earthy substance that does not dissolve readily, and it shows itself in small scales on 8th. We pack the butter in shaved ash tubs, made from heart stuff, as all sap timber in the tub will soak the brine and become moldy. 2d. In the summer, if the heat of the weather requires it, ice is kept in the strainer-pail while straining. The milk is allowed to stand in tin pans, in the milkhouse, till thick; the cream is then skimmed into stone jars, and allowed to stand in a cool cellar being occasionally stirred, till a sufficient quantity accumulates; it is then churned, with a dash churn, ice being added if necessary. In the winter the treatment is the same, except the milkhouse is warmed by a stove, and the cream is warmed in the much air.

5th and 7th. The butter, after being washed, is salted with ground rock salt, five and a half pounds in winter, spring and fall, and seven and a half pounds of salt to one hundred pounds of butter that is to stand in the cellar through the summer—but we use no other substance, except ground rock salt, and that we have never found injurious in making our butter.

The firkins preserve the butter best in going to market, as they entirely exclude the air and dust; the tubs are most convenient for customers. Our cows came in from the 18th of March to the 20th of June, and we have made and packed from them thirteen hundred and fifty pounds of butter, exclusive of the milk and butter used in a family of seven persons. D. MINTHORNE.

Improved method of making Butter-Water and But-termilk removed by Solar Evaporation.

This butter is made by my improved method, whereby every drop of water or buttermilk is taken out of it by solar evaporation. In this process I claim to have so perfected butter-making that butter may be kept sweet several years, without the rancid odor canced by the decomposition of water and buttermilk that pervades most of the butter at the present time. The following is an outline of my iment time. The following is an outline of my iment time. The following is an outline of my improved process:

Firstly—Iu churning the cream, enough ice should be put into it occasionally to make the butter come in crumbs; pour off the buttermilk and wash the butter several times in soft ice water, till there ceases to be any milky appearance; during the process of washing, should there be a solid lump of butter large enough to contain a cell of fluid, that lump should be crushed while in the water, and broken into a corresponding size of the other crumbs.

Lastly—Wash it in brine made of rock salt, saltpetre, soft water, and ice; skim the crumbs out of the hrine with a skimmer; drain each skimmer full the hrine with a skimmer; drain each skimmer full well; spread the crumbs of butter on zinc plates (in cool weather wooden tables will do instead of the zinc); in very hot weather these zinc plates should be set on ice water, while the crumbs are spread out thinly; place the butter in the middle of a milk room; open all the windows, and a current of air passing over it will evaporate all the moisture in less than an hour, in warnu weather, if the room is suitably ventilated; care should be taken not to have any other moisture in the room, like water on the floor, or wet dairy furniture in the room. When the butter is perfectly dry, pack it down immediately, and let there be no more working of it than necessary to pack it solid in a jar or tub. This will secure, unbroken, the crystals of butter and its original duyer. As near as I can ascertain there original flavor. As near as I can ascertain, there will not exceed one ounce of salt to ten pounds of will not exceed one ounce of salt to ten pounds of butter by the process of brine salting. But, as a general thing, butter made for hospitals, rich gouty invalids, and sick persons, the salting process should be omitted altogether. Butter made in this way (without salt), if sealed in cans or jars, and placed in an atmosphere or chamber of bin-oxide of nitrogen, I believe will keep any practical number of years.

I have also an improved butter tub, which I hoped to be able to present to you, but sickness has prevented me this year. It is a butter tub (turned) in halves, opening in the middle, like a match box (circular tenon) made of ordinary porous woodkilu dried, then placed in an air chamber, and after exhausting the air inject a solution of stone, which, by atmospheric pressure, will penetrate the pores of the wood, and becomes petrified and coated with stone, without increasing the weight of the packages over six or eight per cent.; the tub will be air tight, and posssess all the qualities of a stone jar.

CABBAGE INSECTS-No. 1 .- It is one of the trials of the farmer and gardener to have to wage a re-lentless war with animals of an insignificant charac-ter. It is not enough that "he plow and sow," for very likely, should he cease effort after these uccessary parts of his labor are performed, there would be little for him to "reap and mow," at the appointed time in harvest.

Eternal vigilance is the price of the successful cul-turist in the field or garden, neither of which is any employment for the slothful to enter into, for he would surely put off for to-morrow what should be done to-day, and once allow any of the insect tribe to have gained headway, and the chances are lessened an hundred fold against their extirpation.

One reason urged quite frequently against applying well-known remedies is, "it takes time, and cannot be afforded." But, surely, the losing a crop can as ill be afforded as the bot time to save it amounts to amounts to. nounts to.
It should be taken as a maxim that a crop that

It should be taken as a maxim that a crop that will not pay its looking after would be the better unsown, and its place supplied by that which will.

The three worst enemies of the cabbage, and which prey on the Brassiea family generally, are the fly, the Aphis or louse, and the Anbury. or clubfoot, sometimes called fingers and toes. Finter of these is sufficient to blast a crop; the first commencing with the first appearance of the young plant above ground, the second soon after the plantingout, and the third begins to manifest itself usually when the plant is about half grown. Last year the fly was very destructive to plants in the seed bed; so much so that there was a great outery for plants.

We know one man who made $70 on cabbage plants alone, besides planting a large quantity him-self, and all through a very simple remedy—tobacco dust. But the recommending this remedy is by no means new in these columns, although we were strictly cautioned against making it known in the Country Gentleman, lest it should be the means of opening "outsiders" eyes (there was no objection to its being known among us gardeners). But we hon-estly warn any one against divulging a secret to us, bearing on the destruction of vermin, for we surely shall let it out, and hope by so doing to alleviate some troubled fellow-laborer.

Its application is the grand point. It is not a little singular that the very plant the genus Homo should take such a special liking to is also the plant to destroy a vast number of insects. Yet so it is, and it is quite probable that tobacco alone, in one form of another, is sufficient to destroy a large quantity of the insects injurious to vegetation, if it can only be the insects injurious to vegetation, if it can only be well applied. For our present purpose it requires to be dust, which can be got at the tobacconist's for a dollar or two a tightly filled barrel, if applied for some time, before the season of monitoring before the season of monitoring before the season of monitoring time before the season of wanting it. Generally speaking, it is a good deal too coarse, and therein consists its failure as often applied. What is wanting is some kind of a mill to reduce it to powder, but in the absence of this a substitute consists in drying it quite crisp, and pounding or rubbing it small. A sieve is then needed, of a very fine mesh, small. A sieve is then needed, of a very fine mesh, to apply it to the plants, choosing the morning for doing it—putting no more on than is necessary to lay a fine dust on the foliage. While this is on no fly will attack them. But as a strong wind or a shower will scatter it all off, the dose must be repeated until the plants are out of danger. Herein consists the advantage of using just enough for the purpose, as the continued application in quantity is injurious to the plants. While in the seed bed, the trouble of application is not much, and we hesitate not to say. application is not much, and we hesitate not to say, that any person can secure plants by following the above method. We must reserve a few remarks on the other insects for next week. EDGAR SANDERS. Country Gentleman.
